No Criterion of Conditions

For a week the value of stocks have been steadily sinking on the New York Curb and on the Bush street exchange. Tonopah's mines have been steadily improving and enhancing in a material sense and there is a fair prospect that at least one of the former prospects will join the dividend class before Christmas time. Before the next September month is seen it is safe to predict that the weekly tonnage of Tonopah will pass the 13,000 mark and that everybody will be happy except the man who is shorting the future with the hope of eventually pulling out clear without a loss. This is taking a desperate chance but it is one that has been taken before with disastrous consequences to the plungers. West End is known to the insiders as the one best buy that offers. Halfar is coming into the running at a rate that will soon see it away up in the front when the bell rings. Beginning three weeks ago with shipments of fifty tons a week, and not a pound taken from the stoping ground, the Halfar soon advanced to 150 tons and last week entered a still higher class with a credit of 200 tons. The North Star is talking of sending out 150 tons a day from a property that was marked by sporadic shipments of solitary carloads at long intervals three months ago. The Midway is making good faster than her principal stockholders ever expected and when the new working shaft reaches the ore zone for which it is headed, the disclosures will surprise those who are not paying much attention to that stock. Of course the Merger is established as a mine and a high grade producer at that, and there is no use saying anything about the Tonopah Extension with its plans for doubling the mill capacity. Then there is the Montana whose subsidiary, the Commonwealth of Arizona, opens next Friday on what is hoped to be a long career of dividend payments.

It does not need an optimist to cast the horoscope of Tonopah with such a corollary of contributors to establish the fact that it pays to buy Tonopah stocks. Every bear raid engineered by inimical interests since the first of the year has resulted in a failure and discomfiture.

Speculation in Tonopah mining stock is as close to investing in a sure thing that no one can tell where the advance is going to end. The expansion is both east and west of the central mining properties and, like an army throwing out a skirmish line to feel the way, there are half a dozen properties testing the territory for further prospects a mile or two, always in advance of the men with the big capital.

Lovelock is not seeking any part of that hundred million Uncle Sam is going to spread around among the national banks to help move crops for she has a million of her own to invest in beef and other farm appendages that will double the investment by feeding the surplus alfalfa. Senator Pitt knows the short cut to wealth.

Three dividend payers from Tonopah are mentioned in the list of profit distributors for this quarter by the Chicago Mining and Engineering World. They are the Tonopah Extension, $47,150; Belmont, $375,000; and the Tonopah Mining company, $400,000.

Corn is reported four hundred million bushels short this year, but as the internal revenue bureau reports enough corn juice locked up in bonded warehouses to last for the next three years, there need not be any outcry against calamity.

A divorce case in San Francisco disclosed the fact that the Exposition City has the meanest cop in the United States. His wife says he refused to act Santa Claus for the baby and the tot's stocking was left empty.

The Lovelock Review Miner has a hard time trying to choose between two charmers. It is one of the few papers in the state that can brag of two editorial specialists to look after the mining and alfalfa development.

The bill in congress to stop gambling in stocks will share the same fate as the red light restriction bill in California. It will be found in the referendum list in the cooler for future consideration.

Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma are in the prohibition class but the citizens never thought it would come to pass that they had to run tank cars on freight trains to keep stock from dying of thirst.

Goldfield is fast reverting to the desert since it is populated with scorpions as stated by the Goldfield Tribune. This may account for the people making their get-away in such numbers.

Fifty houses filled with scorpions is what the editor of the Goldfield Tribune saw, according to that paper of yesterday. He should be in a hospital if he has them as bad as that.

Women may be garrulous as a class but Sacramento has one who has defied the third degree as administered by the police of that town. Cleo Sterling, the alleged murderess of Cherry de St. Maurice, is silent.

while her male companions are talking their heads into the heater at San Quentin.

For it is recorded as a providential violation that the first man convicted under the "lax husband" law of Washington was the secretary of the democratic state central committee.

The Goldfield Tribune has got down to a society department of two items. The four hundred men have gone off with those "abandoned shares" that were sold to Tonopah buyers.

Poor old Goldfield! It has been reduced to the extremity of shipping scorpions and centipedes as its chief product. Now Goldfield Tribune for confirmation.

These poor federal judges who have been coerced by the department of justice should have chaperones to keep their balance and judicial poles.

Deported houses in Goldfield are filled with scorpions, according to that venacious chronicler, the Tribune.

Bill Talt's dollar diplomacy never got down to the level of the Lind incident of the grape price cabinet.

Isn't it about time for somebody to remark that the "backbone of summer is broken?"

Petaluma has a color war over the relative value of white and brown eggs.

Interesting Sidelights

Fallward the tariff debate wends its weary way.—Baltimore Sun.
If the administration has no use for intervention plans, it might lend them to Governor Sulzer.—Washington Post.

A young St. Louis giant six and one-half feet high has joined the Butler Theater.

AMUSEMENTS

The following interesting program will be shown this afternoon and evening at the Butler: "Rustic Hearts," a Lubin drama; "The Clock of Gault," a modern Kalem society drama; "An Infernal Tangle," a Vitagraph drama, and an Edison comedy, "How Did It Finish?" by Alice Williams. A screwally funny story in which papa starts to read a harrowing melodramatic tale. After many difficulties, he reaches the point where the hero and villain are locked in the death struggle only to find that the last page is missing. Mama is using it as a curl paper! Tomorrow, a three reel subject, "When a Woman Loves," and two others. Next Friday by request we will repeat a two reel Selig production, "The Millionaire Cowboy."

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11.—Orders to bar from the mails at the New Orleans office all postcards or other reproductions of Paul Chabas' painting, "September Morn," were received here today from the postoffice department in Washington.
